Necessity for More Paved Streets is Again Becoming Apparent.

STREETS THAT NEED PAVING

Funeral of Philip W. Coons from His Late Residence—Amounts Deposited by the Pupils of Two of the Public Schools—Members of Dewey Sant Lodge Enjoy a Social Session. John Jones Was Committed to the County Jail.

Now that spring is at hand and the usual proof of such, that of wind, being much in evidence, the thoughts of our progressive citizens seriously turn to paving.

For some time past, plans for the gradual extension of the pave system on the West Scranton thoroughfares have been arranged and much has been already accomplished along this line. In fact, it was the result of concerted action and partial success which revived the almost stagnant West Side board of Trade which has since grown steadily, eager and aggressive in its useful sphere.

Among the many actual necessities in the way of general improvements in a community, that of sewers and paving, occupy the foremost position. This, indeed, is true of West Scranton and great have been the efforts to bring these necessities into use.

The main portion of this section is fairly well blessed with a sewer system and therefore the next step is the pave. The Board of Trade, recognizing the field of action open before it, and realizing the task, has gone about the affair in a systematic manner.

Of course, the board could not act as a whole and a committee on sewers and paving was selected and no better selection could possibly have been made. A. E. Morse and H. D. Jones from the committee, and the work accomplished thus far is evidence of the capabilities of the committee.

West Lackawanna avenue from Ninth to Main and Ninth, Robinson and Jackson streets to North Bromley, have already been paved. In line with the policy the pave system will be gradually worked in on all avenues running parallel with Main avenue and covering the nearest points to the business centre.

Hyde Park avenue comes next and ever since last fall the pave for this street has been agitated with more or less success. Ultimately it is hoped that full success will be the result. The territory to be paved extends from Washburn street, three blocks north to Lafayette street. Plans and cost have been drawn up and submitted to the property owners and the only part now lacking is the signatures of a few of the said owners. The sewer, sufficient for some years to come, is already laid and but little now wanting will be required, and gas and water mains are in.

SOCIAL SESSION. Devi Sant Lodge, No. 50, Order of American Iovites, meet every two weeks in Co-operative hall, on North Main avenue, in regular business session. The lodge has a good membership, but suffered, like all other orders, from non-attendance. This is now changed and some evenings the lodge room is almost too small to accommodate all who attend. This result was brought about by the arranging of a series of short social sessions to follow the close of the regular business. Last evening the lodge met as usual, and the social part of the session was a contest upon the singing of an old Welsh song entitled "Adieu to Old Wales."

The contestants had no preparation and are called upon by the adjudicator, Richard H. Williams acted in this capacity last evening and there were six contestants, viz.: David J. Davis, Jeremiah Samuel, David Jenkins, Theophilus Bowen, Rees Samuel and Gwilym Lewis. Great amusement resulted and David Jenkins was declared victor. Two weeks hence a debate will be the social feature.

The remains reposed in a handsome broad-cloth casket, upon and about which were placed the numerous floral tributes. Rev. J. H. Street, pastor of the Simpson Methodist church, officiated and preached an appropriate sermon. The services concluded, the remains were borne to the Washburn street cemetery, where interment was made.

THEATRICAL ATTRACTIONS.

Sawtelle Dramatic Company.

A repertoire company playing popular plays at popular prices began a week's engagement at the Academy of Music last night. It is Sawtelle's Dramatic company composed of a dozen versatile actors and actresses, a list of valuable artists. The opening bill was a comedy drama, "On the Hudson," which offers considerable scope to the members of the company. The play is in four acts and was produced in a manner that won frequent and hearty applause. The company is headed by Miss Jessie Sawtelle, who is a beautiful woman and a trained actress. Some of the leading members of the company supporting her are Lon Beasley, Charles Mortimer, H. E. McKeen, George E. Fisher, Laura Hulbert and Jennie Kendrick.

Entertaining specialties were introduced between the acts by Miss Lizzie N. Wilson, H. E. McKeen, Impersonator and lighting change artist; George E. Fisher and Russell Brainerd, who presented the delightful features of the performance was the orchestra music. The orchestra carried by the company was augmented by the regular orchestra of the theater.

This afternoon the company presents "The Streets of New York" and tonight "The Captain's Mate." At the conclusion of last night's performance a beautiful tableaux was shown which presented the Goddess of Liberty defending Cuba. A patriotic song was sung in the chorus of which many in the audience joined.

Flynn & Sheridan Company.

Music hall was crowded yesterday afternoon and evening at the initial performance, given by Flynn & Sheridan's "Big Sensation," and the spectators were pleased with the programme presented. The troupe is composed of a large contingent of white and colored vocalists, dancers and acrobats and comedians of more than ordinary ability, and they gave a performance that was received with enthusiasm. The specialty features were given in artistic style by Misses Gordon and Coates, Lina and Vina, the wonderful acrobats; the Golden Gate quartette and Marion and Pearl, the acrobatic comedians.

During the performance the manager announced that in order to satisfy some who had doubts a three round boxing match had been arranged for this evening between Bobby Doherty, of this city, and Arthur Coates, of the Flynn & Sheridan troupe. Many had contended that Coates could not stand up before Doherty for three rounds, and the management desired to demonstrate that he could. He also announced that a matinee would be given this afternoon.

The Old Coat.

"The Old Coat," a comedy in three acts, written by a new maker of plays, Lieutenant W. H. Alderdice, of the United States navy, which is announced for its first performance in this city at the Lyceum Thursday, March 31, is likely to be one of the most talked about pieces this season. The reason is apparent, for it is claimed to be funny and clean; two very desirable attributes in this day and age. Laughter is provoked at the concept of the situations in the first act and complications ensue with a briskness that for a while is breath depressing.

What Dreams May Come.

Paul Kester, who wrote "What Dreams May Come," is a cousin of W. H. Howells, the novelist. Mr. Kester's first play was done in collaboration with Mrs. Fiske—the famous "Tess" of today. This was the "Countess Rendine" and it was produced by Madame Modjeska. Plays of Kester's were subsequently produced by the late Alexander Salvini, Rheas and Walker Whitehead. "What Dreams May Come" will be seen at the Lyceum Friday night.
